Lawyer

Lawyer is a general term used to describe people who provide legal services. Unlike terms such as solicitor or barrister, lawyer has no defined meaning in UK law. Anyone can call themselves a lawyer, regardless of whether they have any professional legal qualifications or not. In our Standards and Regulations [https://higher-rights.sra.org.uk/solicitors/standards-regulations/], we use the word lawyer as a shorthand to describe all regulated individuals, but in reality, if someone calls themselves a lawyer, it does not necessarily mean they have an official title or are subject to any formal regulation.

Legal aid

Government funding that can help people meet the costs of legal services [#legal-services], they require, if they are eligible to receive it. It is also used to support legal assistance being provided at police stations where someone is arrested. The GOV.UK website [<http://www.gov.uk/legal-aid/>] provides information on legal aid.
